

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASENorthside Hospital of Atlanta, GA, adds QuietCall IQ medical paging from HME Wireless to keep pace with its bustling surgical center

Number-one ranked outpatient surgery center in Atlanta performs 62-70 surgeries per day

Atlanta, GA—August 7, 2011—Northside Hospital has upgraded its hospital paging system with QuietCall IQ pagers to improve the experience of patients, families and staff at Atlanta's top-ranked outpatient surgery center. With Northside surgeons performing up to 70 procedures per day (more than any other community hospital in Georgia), a compact hospital pager is a quick, easy way to update family members on the status of loved ones.

"It gives family members more comfort and peace of mind that they can be easily contacted," said Pam Basil, operations coordinator, Northside Hospital Surgical Services. "The pagers have been working great, and they've made things easier for the staff."

Northside upgraded its hospital paging system so that the pagers vibrate as well as sound for patients. Basil noted that she chose HME Wireless because relations with the company were so good from its previous system it was, quote, "a given." She quickly added that she would recommend HME Wireless pagers for similar hospitals and medical centers. In fact, the surgical staff is so happy with its hospital pager system, Basil plans on looking into it for Northside's Breast Care Center.

"Having been a customer for more than 10 years now I want to personally thank the outstanding team at Northside for the support they have given us thru the years," said Russ Ford, Vice President of HME Wireless. "With the continued use of our wireless pagers they are able to improve efficiency, which results in further enhancing the service and satisfaction to patients and their families and since both my daughters were born here I know firsthand how well their entire team executes."
